WATCH OUT.

Watch out for September.
That she don't be leading you
By leagues of hill and heather
To the dream-dance of the dew.
She smiles as witches used to.
And she's sweet as ever maid
That came in festal colors
Of life's carnivals delayed.

Watch that Miss September
That she don't break your heart
With her message of the mornings
That are lovelier than art—
With mist-wreaths on the hillsides
And the meadows down below
Like paths of bloomy glory
Where the fancy pageants go.
—Selected.

ON THE SIDE OF ARRO-GANCE

JUST a few weeks ago the whole country was half frenzied over the fact a great railroad strike seemed inevitable. It was something to worry about because, it would have been a hard blow to all. Local effects may be judged from the fact it would have knocked the legs from under the wheat market, not to mention the fact there could have been no Round-Up with transportation facilities lacking.

The cry then was for something to avert the strike. President Wilson rose to the situation and accomplished what most people thought could not be done. That he had a satisfactory solution is shown by the fact 70 republican members of the house joined with the administration forces in putting the measure through.

But Mr. Hughes insists the eight hour law is wrong and should not have been passed. He differs from President Wilson on the subject. He differs from our Congressman Sinnott and from Congressman Hawley and the 68 other republican congressmen who voted as they did. He differs from Senator

La Follette who voted for the bill. Mr. Hughes takes the railroad magnate's view and plays their game. He agrees with them it would have been better to have thrown the nation into turmoil and disaster rather than to have granted the men what most people consider a just concession.

Mr. Hughes by his own behavior is making himself the foe of the workman and the candidate of arrogant wealth. How can the republicans hope to succeed with such procedure?

MOLASSES FOR MOTORS

ANY and varied experiments are being carried on with a view to developing an alcohol substitute for gasoline.

In Natal, South Africa, there has been organized a motor spirit company which talks of producing 2,000,000 gallons a year of a molasses distillate, which shall be called "natalite" after the place of its invention. The effort to make the product sufficiently cheap to compete with gasoline is actively under way.

In recent tests a twenty-two horse power motor car weighing 3,600 pounds is said to have effort to devise a cheap and satisfactory motor fluid.

WHERE RURAL SCHOOLS
SUFFER

APPROXIMATELY half the population of Oregon lives in the country and the children attend the rural schools. The average school of this type consists of but one room. Consequently there is no supervision save what the directors may give or what may come from an annual visit from the county school superintendent.

The conditions being as stated there is need of good teachers for the country schools. The rural school should have the very best individual teacher because of the undivided responsibility that falls upon such a teacher. But instead of having such teachers the country districts have to take the most amateurish. With only 13 per cent of Oregon teachers being normal graduates the proportion of properly educated teachers in the country is almost nil. A vast number of country teachers have had little or no education above the eighth grade. It is unfair to expect thorough work from them.

A Distinctive Reason

What is the chief reason for the superiority of Royal Baking Powder?

There are several good reasons, but there is one which distinguishes Royal from other baking powders.

This reason, which every woman should know, is that Royal Baking Powder is made from cream of tartar, which comes from grapes. This means a healthful fruit origin. It means natural food as distinguished from mineral substitutes used in other baking powders.

There is no alum nor phosphate in Royal Baking Powder.

WAR PLAY GOT INCENSED
MILITARIAN INTO TRIM

"Shell 43," New Triangle Release, Was Means of Sending Score of Actors to Front in Fighting Condition.

Mime warfare unknowingly helped to prime nearly a score of Triangle players recently for the actual warfare they may indulge in before the Mexican crisis is over. The men in question were conditioned by the fighting staged at Inceville for the battle scenes in "Shell 43," the war drama by C. Gardner Sullivan, in which the Triangle presents R. K. Warner and Enid Markey as co-stars.

For two weeks Director Reginald Barker was engaged in filming the war scenes, and it was during these two weeks that the Mexican situation was approaching a boiling point. Each day the Inceville players read the accounts of activities at Washington, but none of the embryonic militiamen realized that his strenuous labors before cameras were fitting him more each day for the patriotic duty that would follow.

Strangely enough, the very day after Director Barker finished filming the battle scenes President Wilson's request for the mobilization of national guard men was published. And nearly twenty sons or inceville, thanks to the production of "Shell 43," were prepared, without further preliminary training, to join the Seventh regiment of Los Angeles and entrain for the front.

covered 500 miles on 39.59 gallons of the new fluid, or an average of 16.4 miles to the gallon. A large percentage of the alcohol is said to be converted into ether, the density being thereby reduced and the volatility increased.

"Natalite" is, of course, only one of the many substitutes that are being tried out in the remedy is for Oregon to provide more adequate normal instruction. Conditions cannot improve so long as the state normal department is able to turn out only 10 per cent of the new teachers required each year. President Ackerman of the Monmouth normal realizes this and is an earnest booster for a normal at Pendleton. So are all the members of the normal board. The fact these men take this view of the question furnishes the most thorough proof that the move is meritorious and was not started by anyone for the mere purpose of doing something for Pendleton.

A FINE "PARTY OF LINCOLN"

IN his grief because Huerta was not allowed to set up a murderous despotism in Mexico, the candidate who does not know what he would do if he were president assumes that somebody is denying that the Wilson administration put Huerta out of business. In truth, President Wilson glories in the fact, and in his speech of acceptance took occasion to refer to it with pride.

President Wilson did more than destroy the Huerta dictatorship. He broke up a German conspiracy which hoped to use the exiled usurper for the purpose of embroiling the United States with the Mexican people, and he was holding the principal agent of the plot a prisoner when death removed him. True—there is the only flaw in the preparation for the podium, and it should be well improved.

His recovery, well known here, and his health during the summer months, and a tour of the various fairs of Oregon and Washington territory, to take part in the race has returned for a short visit of a day or two.
